

A big mistake

On a dark and stormy night, Irene was driving alone on a deserted road with rain hitting her car's windows. Suddenly, a bloodied man appeared in the middle of the road. Sarah stopped the car as fast as she could with her heart beating fast.

The man, with a terrifying appearance and pale skin, went straight to the car's door. Shaking, Sarah rolled down her window and asked if he needed help. The man got into the car without saying a word, and his presence was very creepy. Sarah tried to ask his name, but he only whispered incomprehensible words.

As they drove through the storm, the man, looking directly at her, finally said, "You shouldn't have picked me up." At that moment, his face twisted into a terrifying smile and disappeared from the back seat. Sarah turned around, but the seat was empty. Terrified, she looked at the side mirrors of the car and saw the man standing in the middle of the road, with a malevolent smile on his face. Since that day, she never drove alone at night because of that creepy and strange man. So always remember to ask, because you don't know who you are getting into your car.